Ambassador Fatuma Ndongiza
Chairperson of the APR Panel of Eminent Persons

Foreword

It is my pleasure to welcome readers to the 2014 APRM Annual Report. The year 2014 witnessed several key events for the Mechanism. The focus of the APR Panel of Eminent Persons was to fast-track the peer review process particularly in countries that have not started or completed their first review. It was in this context that the Panel embarked on regional sensitisation workshops, and the first regional workshop for countries in the Economic Community of Central African States (ECCAS) Region was organised in the Republic of Chad in May 2014.

We thank the host country, Chad, for hosting and contributing immensely to the success of this event, which the Panel will be replicating in other Regional Economic Communities in 2015 and beyond.

The Panel also developed a Monitoring and Evaluation Framework to be used by APRM Member States in reporting on governance reforms. The document is expected to be tabled at the 22nd Summit of the APRM Forum scheduled for 29 January 2015 in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. The Framework will help to ensure that the Mechanism provides value addition through a better implementation of APRM National Programmes of Action.

The 20th Summit of the Committee of Heads of State and Government Participating in the African Peer Review Mechanism (APR Forum) bade farewell to Barrister Akere Tabeng Muna (Cameroon), Barrister Julienne Ondziel Gnelenga (Republic of Congo) and Professor Amos Claudius Sawyer (Liberia), whose four-year tenure as Panel Members expired in January 2014. We thank our colleagues for their dedication and services to the Mechanism, and wish them well in the road ahead. The APR Forum appointed H.E. Edem Kodjo (Togo), Professor Al-Amin Abu-Manga (Sudan) and Professor Mahamoud Youssouf Khayal (Chad) in place of the outgoing Panel Members.

During the year, the Panel lost one of its Members, our distinguished colleague from Nigeria, the late Ambassador Professor Okon Edet Uya. We pay tribute to his numerous accomplishments and contributions in the service to the APRM. Furthermore, the Panel also bade farewell to Madam Baleka Mbete, the colleague from South Africa, who was elected Speaker of the South African Parliament in May 2014. We acknowledge her devoted efforts and precious contributions to the work of the Panel, and wish her well in her service to the Government and People of South Africa.

The APRM is an invaluable but challenging process. The APRM exercise in seventeen reviewed countries has provided an opportunity for stakeholders in government, civil society and the private sector to reflect collectively on governance, address deficiencies and identify best practices. As we embark on the 2nd Decade of the APRM self-assessment process, it is the Panel's hope that the APRM process will continue to shed light on necessary governance reforms, and that all the Member States of the African Union will eventually participate in the Mechanism.

Ambassador Fatuma Ndongiza
Chairperson of the APRM Panel of Eminent Persons

Introduction

Dr. Ibrahim Mayaki
Interim Chief Executive Officer

I would like to begin by thanking the APR Panel Members and Focal Points for their support, following my appointment as Interim CEO of the APR Secretariat at the 21st Summit of the APR Forum of Heads of State and Government of participating countries that was held on 26 June 2014 in Malabo, Equatorial Guinea.

It is noteworthy that the APRM Secretariat has achieved institutional stability in the long-term interest of the Mechanism and is on course building an efficient pool of technical expertise and boosting staff morale for enhanced delivery, including putting in place sound administrative, human resource and financial systems that reflect the best practices in Africa.

This is being done progressively in the context of the adoption of AU rules and regulations. More importantly, the work of the Secretariat has been driven by the core principles and values of the African Union.

The APRM has also prioritised the establishment of a viable knowledge management platform to effectively generate, document, disseminate and monitor the large body of information and data resulting from the review processes of the APRM. It is vital that the APRM champions the much-desired data revolution in Africa from the governance perspective.

In 2014, the APRM launched the Country Review Report of Zambia and hosted a technical experts' workshop in Lesotho on integrating the Lesotho APRM National Programme of Action into the national budget. The APRM also undertook support missions to Senegal and Chad, and a follow-up mission to Sudan. These missions assisted member States to establish national structures and sensitised stakeholders to take ownership of the APRM agenda.

In order to further advance the APRM process, and to enhance awareness and political support, the APRM embarked on regional sensitisation workshops in 2014.

The first regional workshop for countries in the Economic Community of Central African States (ECCAS) region was organised in the Republic of Chad from 15 to 16 May 2014, and will be followed by regional workshops in the SADC and ECOWAS regions in 2015.

The APRM also completed in 2014 the development of a Monitoring and Evaluation Framework, which will assist member States to monitor and better report on progress in governance reforms, in addition to designing a Communication Policy and Strategy to increase awareness of the principles and activities of the Mechanism. The APRM has grown from strength to strength. In 2014, the APRM comprised 34 (thirty-four members), of which 17 (seventeen) had completed their base review and were implementing their national programmes of action.

This is a quite revealing indication that the APRM is an important tool with far-reaching impact on governance practices, as recognised at the highest levels in Africa and internationally. At the 23rd AU General Assembly held from 24 to 26 June 2014 in Malabo, Equatorial Guinea, the General Assembly of the African Union adopted a decision to integrate the APRM as an autonomous entity within the AU System.

This decision underlines the role that the APRM can play as a unique African governance instrument within the AU family, including monitoring accountability of member States in the context of both the AU Agenda 2063 and the United Nations post-2015 Development Agenda.

The APRM is an inclusive process that can assist the AU Commission and Member States by soliciting inputs from the public and various levels of government to implement these programmes. Through the national review processes, citizens from political, social, religious and ethnic backgrounds (women, youth, farmers, professional groups, trade unions, business communities, CSOs, etc.) have been able to actively participate in governance issues that impact their lives.

The APRM recognises the vital support of our Strategic Partners - the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa (UNECA), the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and the African Development Bank (AfDB) - and highly appreciates their continued commitment to the Mechanism that is eloquently expressed, among other initiatives, through institutional capacity building and deepening of the peer review process.

Finally, as resource mobilisation is very critical for the sustainability of the Mechanism, we call upon Member States and Partners to ensure that the Mechanism has the necessary funds for its activities.

Dr. Ibrahim Mayaki
Interim Chief Executive Officer, APRM Secretariat

Organisational Overview

Historical background

The APRM was initiated in 2002 and established in 2003 by the African Union in the framework of the implementation of the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD). A voluntary self-assessment tool instituted by African Heads of State in 2003, the APRM was designed to promote more effective governance across four thematic areas: Democracy and Political Governance, Corporate Governance, Economic Governance and Management, and Socio-economic Development.

Implicit in its design were the core principles of voluntarism, peer support and peer learning. Furthermore, the 'peer review' process contributes to African ownership, encouraging States to monitor and support one another's ambitions and actions to establish good governance practices.

Mission

The primary objective of the APRM is to foster the adoption of policies, standards and practices that lead to political stability, high economic growth, sustainable development and accelerated sub-regional and continental economic integration through experience sharing and reinforcement of successful and best practices, including identifying deficiencies and assessing requirements for capacity building.

Mandate

The mandate of the APRM is to ensure that the policies and practices of participating States conform to the agreed political, economic and corporate governance values, codes and standards contained in the Declaration on Democracy, Political, Economic and Corporate Governance. The APRM is the mutually agreed instrument for self-monitoring by the participating member Governments.

Principles

Every review exercise carried out under the authority of the Mechanism must be technically competent, credible and free of political manipulation. These stipulations together constitute the core guiding principles of the Mechanism.

“ By the close of December 2014, Thirty-four (34) Member States of the African Union had voluntarily acceded to the Mechanism. Seventeen (17) countries that had completed their self-assessment exercise had been peer-reviewed by the Forum of Heads of State and Government. ”

Frequently-Asked Questions (FAQ)

What are the Objectives of the African Peer Review Mechanism (APRM)?

The APRM is the mutually agreed instrument for self-monitoring by the participating Member States of the African Union. Its primary purpose is to foster the adoption of policies, standards and practices that lead to political stability, high economic growth, sustainable development and accelerated sub-regional and continental economic integration through sharing of experiences and reinforcement of successful and best practices, including identifying deficiencies and assessing the needs for capacity building.

What are the Principles of the APRM?

The core guiding principles of the Mechanism are broad-based participation, national ownership, technical competence and freedom from political manipulation.

What are the thematic areas of the APRM?

Performance and Progress in Governance are measured in four substantive areas:

- Democracy and Political Governance;
- Economic Governance;
- Corporate Governance; and
- Socio-economic Development

Which countries participate in the APRM Process?

Participation in the process is open to all Member States of the African Union. This will entail an undertaking to submit to periodic peer reviews, as well as to facilitate such reviews, and to ensure that the policies and practices of participating states conform to the agreed political, economic and corporate governance values, codes and standards contained in the Declaration on Democracy, Political, Economic and Corporate Governance.

How do countries become members of the APRM process?

Membership of the APRM is open to all the 54 member countries of the African Union. However, membership of the APRM is acquired on a voluntary basis. As of 31 January 2014, thirty-four (34) of the 54 Member Countries of the African Union are members of the APRM.

The process of accession usually starts with a country expressing its desire to become a member of the APRM. A Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) is then signed between the country and the APR Forum, a body comprising Heads of State and Government, at any of the biannual AU/APRM Summits.

Who is the Chairperson of the APR Forum?

The current Chairperson of the APR Forum is Her Excellency Ellen JOHNSON SIRLEAF, President of the Republic of Liberia.

What have been the major successes of the APRM?

Through its transparent processes, the APRM has opened up the political space for citizen participation in policy debates, fostered national dialogue and innovation, demystified complex subjects for the public and increased the advocacy for good governance and better service delivery. In some countries, the APRM findings have warned of impending crises, and indeed have provided a useful framework for reform.

How are Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) involved?

Civil Society Organisations are involved in all stages of the process which may include participation in one or more of the following structures or activities:

- The Advance/Support Mission meetings that provide a forum for learning about the process and interacting with the APRM Delegation;
- The National Governing Councils that provide strategic policy direction to the process at country level;
- The Technical Review Teams that coordinate the technical production of a Country Self-Assessment Report (CSAR) and the National Programme of Action (NPOA) document;
- The Country Review Team comprising independent African experts engaged in the four thematic areas;
- Workshops for evaluating and strengthening the APRM; and
- Country Review Missions that provide the opportunity for meetings between Civil Society Organisations and the APRM Country Review Team.

Is the APRM an assessment of the Executive Branch of Government?

The APRM is used by Member Countries to self-monitor all aspects of their governance and socio-economic development. The exercise is not limited to the Executive. It includes the legislative and judicial branches of government as well as an assessment of the private sector, civil society and the media in the areas of governance and socio-economic development.

The overall review process provides national forum for dialogue on governance and socio-economic indicators in the Member State and the opportunity to build national consensus on the way forward. The National Programme of Action (NPOA) prepared at the end of the review process updates the road map agreed upon by all the stakeholders.

What happens after the Peer Review?

The National Programme of Action (NPOA) is implemented after the peer review of a Member State at a Summit of the APRM Heads of State and Government (APR Forum). The NPOA addresses short-term, medium-term and long-term goals that are monitored systematically. The monitoring body can be the National Governing Councils or a smaller representative body including state and non-state actors. This body monitors the implementation of the NPOA and prepares a Six-monthly Progress Report for the APR Panel of Eminent Persons (APR Panel) and an Annual Progress Report for the APR Forum. After two to four years, the reviewed Member State is eligible for a subsequent review.

What is the National Governance Commission / National Governing Council?

This is the body that provides strategic policy direction to the implementation of the APRM. This body must contain upstanding citizens who command the respect of the general public. The Country Guidelines provide that the National Commission established to manage the process at national level should be autonomous from government and inclusive of all key stakeholders. In this context, membership must be diverse and representative to ensure the APRM spirit of broad-based participation.

In 2014, South Africa also held sensitisation workshops with APRM Provincial Governing Councils in preparation for its Second APRM Review process.

TANZANIA

The Tanzanian National APRM Secretariat has held several workshops with civil society groups to discuss the content of the Country Review Report while waiting for the Government of Tanzania to officially launch the Review Report of Tanzania. Ministries and government agencies have held technical workshops on integrating the APRM NPoA into existing government policies and strategies, and this is expected to facilitate the implementation of APRM recommendations from the Review Report.

UGANDA

In May 2014, the Government of Uganda approved a new 8-member National Governing Council for the 2014-2017 period. PARTNERSHIP AND OUTREACH ACTIVITIES

SENSITISATION MISSION TO THE EAST AFRICAN LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

In an effort to raise awareness of APRM in Africa, the Chairperson of the APR Panel, Ambassador Fatuma Ndangiza, led a Sensitisation Mission to the East African Legislative Assembly (EALA) in Arusha on 28 March 2014. The purpose of the mission was threefold:

- a. to engage with EALA and update them on the APRM process;
- b. to raise awareness and commitment to the process; and
- c. to develop partnerships between APRM and EALA in promoting the goals of the Mechanism.

Among the Resolutions made, the members undertook to carry out a joint Mission (APRM/EALA) to Burundi to convince the Authorities to accede to the APRM. It was also agreed that EALA will spearhead activities and promote the APRM within the Community. The modalities will be worked out by the Assembly with technical assistance from the APRM.

SENSITIZATION MISSION TO THE PAN-AFRICAN PARLIAMENT (PAP)

The APR Panel undertook a Sensitisation Mission to the Pan-African Parliament in Midrand, South Africa, during the PAP Committee Session in August 2014. The mission culminated in a recommendation on the presentation of APRM Country Review Reports at PAP sessions. The recommendation was unanimously approved by the Pan African Parliament during its October 2014 Ordinary Session.

POPULARISING THE APRM THROUGH THE MEDIA IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

On 30 July 2014, a workshop was jointly organized by the South African Institute of International Affairs (SAIIA) and the National APRM Office in the South African Department of Public Service and Administration to popularise APRM in Southern Africa. The workshop brought together media representatives, and other interested participants, including representatives from Kenya, Tanzania and Zambia, to discuss ways and means of increasing media coverage of the APRM in Southern Africa.

APRM REGIONAL WORKSHOP

In 2014, the APR Panel approved regional workshops to be organised in regional economic communities throughout the continent to sensitise stakeholders on the APRM. The regional workshops will provide an opportunity to bring Member States together for several reasons, including:

- (i) Fostering dynamic positive interactions between participating Member States in the framework of a collective peer apprenticeship within the APRM;
- (ii) Inviting non-member countries of the APRM as observers, so that they can take advantage of their presence to learn and prepare for their future accession to the APRM; and
- (iii) Briefing Regional Economic Communities (REC) on the APRM, so that they assist in promoting the governance processes.

The APRM Secretariat, in partnership with the Government of Chad organized the first Regional Workshop for the Economic Community of Central African States (ECCAS) region in N'djamena, Chad, from 15 to 16 May 2014. The Workshop brought together stakeholders from Chad as well as representatives from the Republic of Congo, Gabon, São Tomé and Príncipe, the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) and Central African Republic (CAR). Members of APRM National Governing Councils or Secretariats of Mali, Benin, Ghana and Mozambique were also present to share their country experiences with the APRM. One positive outcome of the meeting is that Chad is now on track with its review process. The Workshop also offered a platform to non-member states (DRC and CAR) to learn about the Mechanism and the inherent benefits. Two regional workshops are also scheduled to take place in 2015, for the SADC and ECOWAS regions respectively.

AFRICA WEEK 2014: THE AFRICA WE WANT: SUPPORT OF THE UNITED NATIONS SYSTEM TO THE AFRICAN UNION'S AGENDA 2063"

The APR Panel and the APRM Secretariat participated in the 2014 Africa-NEPAD Week. The event is held annually in New York under the auspices of the United Nations Office of the Special Adviser on Africa (OSAA) in support of the African Development Agenda. The Africa Week, which ran from 13 to 17 October 2014 at the UN Headquarters, offered a platform to the APRM to enhance its visibility and importance as the governance monitoring mechanism of the African Union. These events created clear interest in the APRM among the international community, in particular the UN, as manifested in several invitations to the APR Panel aimed at discussing how the APRM can be utilised as the monitoring and accountability mechanism for the Post-2015 Development Agenda.

CONFERENCE ON “CIVIL SOCIETY AND THE AFRICAN PEER REVIEW MECHANISM IN TANZANIA”

The Conference, which was held from 5 to 7 November in Dar es Salaam, brought together civil society organisations to discuss the findings of opinion surveys on the views expressed by CSOs in Tanzania and their understanding of the APRM. After the Conference, participants understood that APRM is an African-owned programme, a Mechanism to assist countries and citizens to improve their governance in order to achieve their development goals. Opportunities for citizen participation and monitoring of the APRM governance assessments and how the APRM ties in with the daily activities of civil society groups were explained.

CONFERENCE ON THE THEME “IS THE AFRICAN PEER REVIEW MECHANISM STRENGTHENING GOOD GOVERNANCE IN UGANDA IN 2014?” - A GLOOMY OUTLOOK

The Conference held on 11 and 12 November 2014 in Kampala on the above-mentioned theme brought together the Uganda National NGO Forum (UNNGOF) member associations to discuss the results of the EISA Opinion Survey of Non-state Actor views on the APRM and Governance. Although the APRM is a useful tool for promoting good and accountable government in Africa, respondents to the survey had pessimistic views on the impact of the APRM on governance in Uganda. According to the preliminary Survey Results commissioned by the Electoral Institute for Sustainable Democracy in Africa (EISA), 77.40% of the respondents stated that the APRM process has not helped to improve governance. 96.2% of the respondents were of the view that the APRM and its aims are largely unknown to the ordinary person on the street, while 68.2% of the respondents were dissatisfied (18.2% of these respondents being very dissatisfied) with the quality of governance in their country. The Conference enlightened the participants on the achievements attributed to the APRM, which are often not adequately reported.

HIGH-LEVEL DIALOGUE ON ENDING AIDS BY 2030

On 25 November 2014, the APR Panel participated in the “High-level Dialogue on Ending AIDS” organised by the African Union Commission (AUC), UN Economic Commission for Africa (UNECA) and the UN Joint Programme for HIV and AIDS (UNAIDS) as part of the continental World AIDS Day activities. The Panel underscored the importance of the APRM as a monitoring and accountability mechanism in the implementation of HIV and AIDS commitments and called on stakeholders to put pressure on governments to honour their commitments and strengthen the APRM to enable the institution to deliver effectively on its mandate.

5TH MEETING OF THE OECD/SOE NETWORK FOR SOUTHERN AFRICA

The APRM Secretariat attended the 5th Meeting of the OECD/SOE Network for Southern Africa held in Lusaka from 26 to 27 November 2014. The outcome of deliberations with business representatives and SOE was the launch of the Guidelines for the Governance of State-Owned Enterprises for the SADC Region, as well as the sharing of good practices for encouraging responsible business conduct in SOEs in Southern Africa.

TRACKING THE IMPLEMENTATION AND ACHIEVEMENTS OF AU FRAMEWORKS AND DECISIONS ON HEALTH AND EDUCATION

The APRM Secretariat and the NEPAD Science and Technology Innovation Hub have embarked on a project aimed at tracking the implementation and achievements of AU Frameworks and Decisions on Health and Education.

The project involves:

- i. the analysis of the APRM Questionnaire, in relation to the comprehensive list of AU commitments with regard to health and education indicators and identification of gaps in the Questionnaire;
- ii. the alignment of the APRM Questionnaire with the Common African Position on the Post-2015 Development Agenda, and the UN Sustainable Development Goals, with the objective of establishing synergies among the frameworks.

LAUNCH OF A STUDY ON CORPORATE GOVERNANCE IN AFRICA

The Secretariat attended the launch of a South African Institute of International Affairs report that discussed the business environment, stakeholder management issues, corporate social investment practices and business ethics in six APRM member countries in Southern Africa. The launch took place on 13 November 2014 in Johannesburg and was attended by representatives from the private sector, regulators and the corporate governance research community.

KNOWLEDGE MANAGEMENT AND DRAFT COMMUNICATION STRATEGY & POLICY

As part of the efforts to position the APRM on the leading edge of thinking on governance issues in Africa, the APRM Secretariat developed a Draft Communication Strategy & Policy in 2014, which will guide the implementation of the knowledge management for the APRM.

MONITORING, REPORTING AND EVALUATION FRAMEWORK

THE MONITORING, REPORTING AND EVALUATION (MR&E) FRAMEWORK FOR THE APRM

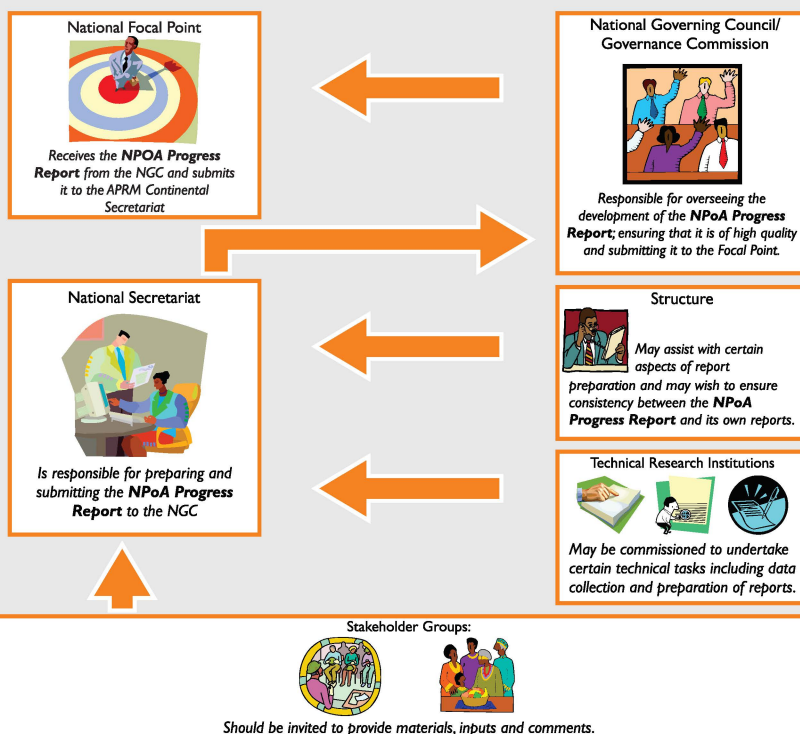

The MR&E framework is the outcome of a review of current practices used in reporting progress in the implementation of APRM National Programmes of Action (NPOAs) by Member States. The Secretariat developed two documents to assist countries report on progress in more structured way:

(i) The Guidelines for National-level Monitoring and Reporting on the Implementation of the APRM NPOAs which guide Member States in the area of NPOA monitoring and reporting after the peer review; and

(ii) the Guidelines for national evaluation of country participation in the APRM, which guide Member States in their evaluation of the APRM process, to be completed every 8 years.

The Guidelines for National-level Monitoring and Reporting on the Implementation of the APRM NPOAs

Diagram showing roles in the preparation of the NPOA Progress Reports

The Guidelines for National-level Monitoring and Reporting on the Implementation of the APRM NPOAs are relevant to the two types of reviews, the Base Reviews that are the first reviews for each Member State, and the subsequent Periodic Reviews. They are to support the implementation of the NPOA after each peer review at the Summit of APR Forum of Heads of State and Government.

National Programmes of Action

The pillar of a successful monitoring, reporting and evaluation framework at the national level is the preparation of a good National Programme of Action (NPOA). The guidelines recommend that a clear and direct focus on governance improvement be retained when drafting NPOAs. Within each thematic area, care should be taken to ensure that the items included in the Programme relate directly and primarily to the issues that emerged as important priorities from a governance perspective in the country review. Care must be taken to also ensure that the programme does not include items that are tangentially relevant.

The preparation of the NPoA should be a process that fosters Government buy-in, since it will be responsible for implementation, but care should also be taken to include appropriate civil society representative structures and the country's APRM National Governance Council/Commission.

Experts developing a country's NPoA should ensure that costs are as realistic as other programmes included in a country's official budget. A template for a standardised NPOA is included in the guidelines to assist Member States to develop a coherent and comprehensive National Programme of Action.

While each of the items in the NPOA will indicate what agency or entity is responsible for its implementation, Government is ultimately responsible for the implementation of the NPoA in line with its commitment in acceding to the APRM. The Government also has responsibility for marshalling resources for the implementation of the NPoA as a whole.

Progress Reports on NPoA Implementation

The Guidelines also provide a template that describes best practices in regular reporting on progress in the implementation of National Programmes of Action. A well-developed progress report will help to meet the following objectives, amongst others:

- Ensuring that a Member State implements the national priorities as agreed by stakeholders during the review process and keeps to commitments made in the APRM NPoA for remedial steps in addressing gaps in governance as identified in the review;
- Monitoring progress in the achievement of goals set in the NPoA during implementation; and
- Identifying gaps and the human, technical or financial resources required to undertake programmes and initiatives set out in the NPoA.

Although Governments of Member States are primarily responsible for implementing NPOAs, the reporting system should be independent and transparent. In this regard, the National Governing Council/Commission is given the ultimate responsibility for monitoring and oversight of NPoA implementation. As broad-based participation is one of the fundamental principles of the APRM, it is important that a national oversight mechanism also takes this into account. It is recommended that the National Governing Council should continue to meet periodically in order to play its leadership and oversight roles, and that NPoA Progress Reports be submitted annually.

Guidelines for national evaluation of country participation in the APRM

The Guidelines for national evaluation of a Member State's participation in the APRM allow for a full assessment of the APRM process every eight years. Evaluating participation in the APRM enables each country to assess what has been achieved through its involvement in the Mechanism, and identify the accrued benefits that can be optimised.

It also paves the way for addressing challenges and shortcomings in APRM implementation. The evaluation should answer questions such as: to what extent has participation in the APRM provided benefits to the country whose participation in the Mechanism is being evaluated? Have the accrued benefits been effective, considering the costs of participation?

ADMINISTRATION AND FINANCIAL REPORT

The Secretariat is mandated to provide secretarial, technical, coordinating and administrative support services for the implementation of the APRM. With the existing limited capacity, the Secretariat has managed to support the work of all APRM governance structures, namely, APR Panel, Committee of APRM Focal Points and the APR Forum. In its attempts to enhance its capacity, the Secretariat expedited the implementation of corporate support services through the establishment of units such as Procurement, Human Resources, Finance and Information Technology. That initiative enabled the Secretariat to operate in its own capacity, independent of the Development Bank of Southern Africa, which had been hosting the Secretariat since its inception.

a) Transformation of the Secretariat

To further enhance the capacity of the Secretariat, the APR Forum, at its 21st Session held in June 2014 in Malabo, Equatorial Guinea, resolved to transform the APR Secretariat into a structure with a strong administrative capacity to effectively support APRM programmes. The transformation process was kick-started with the prompt endorsement of leadership changes at the Secretariat level. This would be followed by the swift recruitment process for a substantive Chief Executive Officer and senior management for the Secretariat.

To ensure implementation of some decisions that would bring stability at the Secretariat, the APR Forum approved the appointment of the current CEO of the NEPAD Agency as Interim CEO of the APRM Secretariat pending the finalisation of the recruitment process for the CEO by January 2015.

b) Integration of the APRM into the African Union

One of the major deliverables during the interim period was the Integration of the APRM into the African Union. At its 23rd Session, the Assembly of the African Union adopted a Decision to integrate the APRM as an Autonomous Entity within the AU System. In terms of this decision, the AUC and the APR Secretariat were requested to consult on the practical modalities involved in the integration of the APRM into the AU System, taking into account the fact that:

- APRM is a voluntary organization of AU Member States;
- APRM exercises autonomy in its financial and budgetary processes;
- APRM's legal personality, structure, administrative, human resources and financial management shall be based on the standard procedures of the AU System;

Based on the mandate of the Malabo AU Summit, consultations between the Secretariat and AUC took place and culminated in a road map with the following highlights:

- Progress recorded to date by the Secretariat in adopting AU rules, regulations and practices for its administration, finance and HR issues.
- Options on the “integration modalities” reflecting the mandate of the Malabo AU Summit for consideration by APRM governing structures and stakeholders.
- Ongoing technical interaction between the APRM Secretariat and AUC through staff secondment in the fields of HR, Finance and Administration.
- An engagement strategy with APRM governing structures and stakeholders on the proposed options of the integration modalities to ensure the maximum buy-in.

c) Funding of Secretariat Operations

In 2014, the Secretariat was faced with financial troubles as a result of the non-payment of mandatory contributions by some member countries. That situation made it difficult for the Secretariat to meet its financial obligations. In response to this financial challenge, the transitional management introduced the following measures:

- Cost saving measures and stepping up of a resource mobilisation drive targeting the fulfilment of the financial obligations of Member States and the support from Strategic Partners.
- Introduction of financial controls including changing payment approval signatories.
- Negotiations with creditors on payment terms – which included pro-rata payment arrangements
- Design of the Resource Mobilisation Strategy to guide the Mechanism in encouraging Partners and Member States to support the funding of the APRM.
- The Secretariat re-engaged the UNDP towards the full operationalisation of the APRM Trust Fund through replenishment from bilateral and multilateral partners.
- Finalisation of the 2011/2012 APRM Audit and commencement of the 2013/2014 exercise.
- Design and approval of the result-based budgets and work plans of the Secretariat for 2014 and 2015 by the Committee of Focal Points.
- Confirmation to convene the APRM Retreat with the Strategic Partners (UNDP, ECA and AfDB) on 24 January 2015 towards mobilising support for the implementation of the budget and work plans.

Consequently, as at 31 December 2014, the APRM Secretariat had received contributions totalling US$ 2,319,473 from 9 out of 34 Member Countries, namely: Burkina Faso, Ethiopia, Kenya, Mozambique, South Africa, Sudan, Rwanda, Uganda, and Zambia.

d) Staffing

The APRM Secretariat had been operating with a skeleton staff, pending the finalisation and approval of a new organisational structure. The new structure has been approved with a finalised recruitment planning. The new structure comprises 45 positions, of which only 18 were filled in 2014.

The table shows the staff complement as at the end of 2014.

CONCLUSION

CONCLUSION AND PERSPECTIVES FOR 2015

The prospects for 2015 are bright, albeit within a challenging financial atmosphere for the APRM, as many APRM accomplishments in 2015 will depend on the availability of resources. The APRM is deepening its review system and the second cycle review of Kenya and Uganda is scheduled for 2015. Djibouti's first review will take place in the first semester of 2015, followed in the second half of 2015 by base review missions to Chad, Senegal and Sudan.

Four workshops are due to take place in 2015: (i) the Retreat between the APR Panel and APRM Strategic Partners – UNECA, AFDB and UNDP – scheduled for 24 January 2015 in Addis Ababa, (ii) a joint meeting between the OECD and the APRM during which the two organisations are expected to exchange and discuss their experiences with their respective peer review methodologies, and (iii) two regional workshops on the APRM in the SADC and ECOWAS sub-regions that will bring together APRM practitioners in each region to discuss common processes, challenges and best practices, and will pave the way for closer collaboration with the SADC and ECOWAS Secretariats respectively.

The “AfricaWeek” in New York has become an annual opportunity to showcase APRM internationally, especially within the United Nations System, with a view to promoting good governance practices in Africa and raising the visibility of the APRM. This high-profile event will take place in October 2015.

For 2015, the APRM has charted a path whereby it seeks to emerge as a knowledge centre, a hub on governance in Africa. The overall objective of Knowledge Management at the APRM is to facilitate access to APRM knowledge products in various forms by different stakeholders. Knowledge Management will be enhanced by a more focussed APRM Communication Strategy, with a view to enhancing the visibility of the APRM on the African continent.

In conclusion, the success of APRM in 2015 will depend on the extent to which the APRM is capable of carrying out its resource mobilisation strategy efficiently while continuing to carry out its comprehensive governance review of Member States. The establishment of a unit dedicated to this activity at the APRM Secretariat will help to ensure that APRM continues to produce high-quality reviews for African citizens. Africa deserves nothing less than that!
